COUNTERING VIOLENT EXTREMISM

RESIDENT: N/A
MOBILE: P319286

ELIGIBLE FUNDING: IMET, FMF/FMS, RDFP
CERTIFICATION: PME, E-IMET, CTIWF/ RDFP

The Countering Violent Extremism (CVE) course explores how extremists emerge and become violent in different ways and contexts. Participants focus on what governments and civil society can do to prevent, counter, and reverse the process of radicalization. Special attention is given to learning how governments can determine true push-pull factors that promote extremist violence. In addition, numerous mini case studies are presented to encourage participants to think about the range of options available for innovative, context-appropriate CVE strategies.

OBJECTIVES

As an outcome of this offering, participants will be able to:

- ◆ Understand push-pull factors and how they lead to extremist violence
- ◆ Determine how governments can use push-pull factors to respond to extremism
- ◆ Understand typical CVE errors and develop more successful strategies
- ◆ Build professional networks between and among CVE and conflict management practitioners

TOPICS

The delivery format combines lectures, discussion, and practical small-group activities. Course topics may include:

- ◆ The radicalization process
- ◆ Push-pull factors and government actions
- ◆ Countering violent extremism approaches
- ◆ Best practices in countering violent extremism
- ◆ Prisons and radicalization
- ◆ Rehabilitation and reintegration

PARTICIPANTS

This course can be taught to audiences of 30 - 40 participants. Host governments in consultation with US Embassies are asked to draw participation from a wide spectrum of female and male, military and civilian officials in mid- to senior-level positions from countries concerned about violent extremism at home or the threat of extremism they may face during national or international operations. Civil society members are also welcome participants.

ISG PROGRAM AREAS

ISG programming has been developed over 25 years by providing military and civilian officials with unique education and professional development programs. Courses are designed to cultivate individual understanding of complex issues, foster peer-to-peer learning, and build international communities of interest.

FACULTY

ISG has a diverse faculty team grounded in professional experience from academic, military, government, and civil sectors. The core faculty are augmented by experts drawn from other parts of government, and American and international subject matter experts drawn from universities, industry, think tanks, international organizations, and non-governmental organizations.

ENROLLMENT

Courses are conducted as part of the US Government security cooperation efforts. Interested partner nation personnel should contact their government’s international cooperation section, or the relevant US Embassy’s security/military cooperation office for selection processes and enrollment. Interested US citizens may contact ISG to discuss availability.

FUNDING

Educational programs are primarily implemented through Title 22 authorized programs (International Military Education and Training, Foreign Military Sales, Peacekeeping Operations) and various Title 10 authorized programs such as the Maritime Security Initiative (MSI) and Regional Defense Combating Terrorism and Irregular Warfare Fellowship Program (RDFFP).

ABOUT ISG

The Institute for Security Governance – situated within the Defense Security Cooperation University’s (DSCU) International School of Education and Advising (ISEA) – is the Department of Defense’s Center of Excellence for Institutional Capacity Building (ICB). As a component of the Defense Security Cooperation Agency (DSCA), and one of its primary international Security Cooperation schoolhouses, ISG is charged with building partner institutional capacity and capability through tailored advising, education, and professional development programs grounded in American values and approaches.
