

INSTITUTE FOR SECURITY GOVERNANCE

DEFENSE SECURITY COOPERATION UNIVERSITY

NATIONAL RESILIENCE FOR DEFENSE & SECURITY

RESIDENT: P179928

MOBILE: P319928

CERTIFICATION: PME

This course aims to equip participants with knowledge and skills to develop national resilience frameworks that can improve national and collective security in the face of complex threats and hazards, including large scale disasters, domestic crises, and irregular or hybrid warfare. The course will emphasize planning considerations and capabilities requirements for countering full-spectrum threats and hazards that target the civil population and critical infrastructure and services. It will explore government coordination with the civil and private sectors, reflecting the interconnected and interdependent nature of defense and security requirements.

OBJECTIVES

Upon conclusion of this course, participants will be able to:

- ◆ Distinguish various characteristics and applications of national resilience
- ◆ Understand and apply whole-of-government resilience models to improve emergency preparedness and national security
- ◆ Develop risk identification and management measures for preventing, mitigating, or recovering from systemic shocks and failures
- ◆ Inform, prepare, protect, and mobilize civil sector constituents as essential components of national resilience
- ◆ Identify key public-private sector interdependencies and associated risk management, planning, and coordination

TOPICS

The course will orient participants to successful whole-of-government resilience models such as the “Total Defence” approach, in which all facets of society contribute to keeping their nation safe, sovereign, and functional. Course topics may include:

- ◆ Threats to resilience
- ◆ National resilience frameworks
- ◆ Civil-military cooperation in resilience
- ◆ Building resilience during post-conflict periods
- ◆ Emerging technologies and resilience
- ◆ Future resilience challenges

PARTICIPANTS

The intended audience is mid- to senior-level military planners and civilian equivalents. This resident course can be taught to either global or regional audiences of between 15-30 participants.

ISG PROGRAM AREAS

ISG's tailored education and professional development programs support the sustainment of a comprehensive knowledge base and strengthen partner capacities to confront complex security and defense challenges. Engagements are designed to cultivate individual understanding of complex issues, foster peer-to-peer learning, and build international communities of interest.

FACULTY

ISG has a diverse faculty team grounded in professional experience from academic, military, government, and civil sectors. The core faculty are augmented by experts drawn from other parts of government, and U.S. and international subject matter experts drawn from universities, industry, think tanks, international organizations, and non-governmental organizations.

ENROLLMENT

Courses are conducted as part of the U.S. Government's Security Cooperation efforts. Interested partner nation personnel should contact their government's international cooperation section, or the relevant U.S. Embassy's security/military cooperation office for selection processes and enrollment. Interested U.S. citizens may contact ISG to discuss availability.

FUNDING

Educational programs are primarily implemented through Title 22 authorized programs (International Military Education and Training, Foreign Military Sales, Peacekeeping Operations) and various Title 10 authorized programs such as the Maritime Security Initiative (MSI) and Regional Defense Fellowship Program (RDFP).

ABOUT ISG

The Defense Security Cooperation University's (DSCU) Institute for Security Governance (ISG) is the Department of Defense's leading implementer for Institutional Capacity Building (ICB) and one of its primary international schoolhouses. As a component of the Defense Security Cooperation Agency (DSCA), ISG is charged with building partner institutional capacity and capability through tailored advising, education, and professional development programs grounded in American values and approaches.
