Each Mobile Education and Training (MET) course in the International Defense Acquisition Resource Management (IDARM) series can be developed in partnership with the host country's military and civilian leadership and managers using a three-phased approach. This Curriculum Development offering is phase II. This phase builds upon the information gathered during the phase I (needs assessment/in-country site survey; P309130). Phase II is accomplished via MET or in U.S. In either case, the tailored curriculum will be presented to the partner nation delegation for approval and any necessary modifications will be implemented.

OBJECTIVES

Participants will be able to:

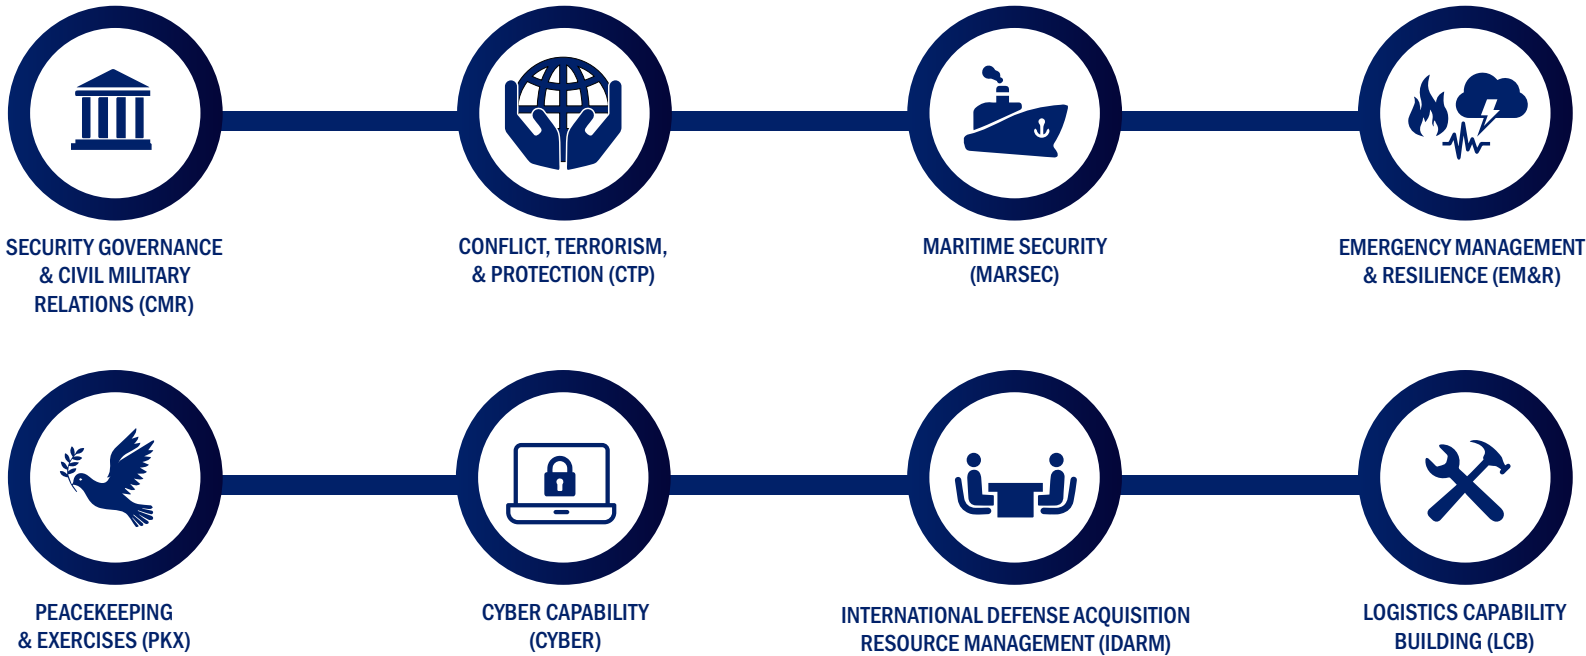

- ◆ Further refine understanding of the host nation's defense acquisition priorities, policies, and procedures
- ◆ Using known country requirements and established instructional techniques, a curriculum is designed to meet desired learning outcomes

PARTICIPANTS

The preferred location for Phase II program design is at the Institute for Security Governance headquarters in Monterey, CA. Country representatives may be permitted to travel to the U.S. and meet with faculty who will develop and deliver the project.
