Functional Area Description

The Assessment, Monitoring and Evaluation (AME) functional area is designed to prepare the AME professional to plan and execute monitoring and evaluation programs. Monitoring and evaluation methods are used to measure, capture, and provide accurate information to make evidence-based, strategic decisions that can affect funding, resource allocation, program management, and/or policy formulation. This curriculum is designed around the critical concepts of monitoring and evaluation as a science.

How will this prepare you better for your work?

Monitoring and Evaluation is a core planning process for Building Partner Capacity (BPC) programs. At the end of the Foundational certification pathway, the AME professional will have the knowledge requisite to execute and understand M&E in the DOD context.
